

With a 5" board if you raise the board the maximum amount that will allow the wing to clear in tacks or gybes, you can jump out in 4' of water (half way between your belly button and your nipples) and still have 6" below your blade tip. The picture is a bit misleading because the mast is a bit further forward and the cheeks of the main are a bit higher (the square shown is what I determined to be the max up position of the blade)
